

The Wellcraft Corsica is one of a refined and rare breed, offering the unlikely combination of exhilarating performance and resplendent luxury accommodations.

At the helm, the curved windshield and international-style instrument pod hint at above-average performance. Twin powerplants with up to 840 combined horsepower deliver on the promise. The spacious twin helm seat can be accompanied by an optional companion bench seat; both have storage underneath. A stern seat and optional wet bar and ice maker complete the cockpit amenities.

Wellcraft interior designers have spread the glowing tones of a southwestern sunset over the Corsica's innovative "barrier-free" layout. The result is a warm and incredibly spacious interior, brimming with luxury features.

Lit by overhead skylights, the stylish main salon is trimmed in oak and has a convertible, L-shaped couch and dinette area. An entertainment center may be equipped with a television, VCR and deluxe stereo system.

Forward, the owner's cabin is separated by a bi-fold door, and has a lighted storage locker and private access to the head.

The head is spacious, and features a separate shower and vanity with sink.

Just aft is a second cabin, which offers privacy for two adults or the children.

As you would expect on such a craft, the galley is extensive, and all the modern conveniences are available, including an optional microwave, coffeemaker and many more.

Own one of a fine and rare breed—the luxurious Corsica... a true performance yacht from Wellcraft.
