
St. Tropez is a name synonymous with relaxing in the finest style. The parallels evident on the boat by the same name are purely intentional.

This year, the St. Tropez's luxury interior has been redesigned to offer even more space and amenities. The master stateroom forward features a large double berth, and a private head with pressure hot and cold water, vanity, electric toilet and a shower is located portside aft.

In the main salon, the sweeping wraparound windows and bulkhead-free design makes the cabin a large, pleasing living space. The salon sofa has been extended, and a bunk has been added above and behind the backrest. The entertainment center now has room for an optional TV. Even the hanging locker has been made larger.

In the galley, storage space has been enlarged and there is a refrigerator, two burner stove and space to add an optional microwave and coffeemaker.

Topsides, the cockpit features a twin helm seat and large passenger seat which afford generous space for relaxing with family and friends. A cockpit wet bar may also be added.

With power options up to 7.4 liter big blocks coupled to heavy duty underwater gear, the St. Tropez has a well-deserved reputation for performance.
